SAVED - BY A WHISKER!

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

AN ex-rough sleeper and recovering heroin addict from Tottenham is being helped to turn his life around by a stray cat he befriended.

Former soldier Wayne Cornwall's kitty companion and the amazing transformation the moggy has had on his life has striking similarities to the feel-good movie, A Street Cat Named Bob, currently showing at cinemas.

It tells the true-life story of former heroin addict and ex-rough sleeper James Bowen, who adopts an injured stray cat and the pair become inseparable busking on the streets of the capital.

Wayne, who spent 30 years trapped in a cycle of offending, heroin addiction and rough sleeping after leaving the Army, moved into a flat in Seven Sisters three months ago.

For the past two years he has been supported to overcome his drug addiction and mental health problems by homelessness charity SHP (Single Homeless Project).

Three months ago a black and white Tom jumped through his bathroom window and refused to leave.

He had dreamed of being a pet owner, but because of his mental health and addiction issues he didn't feel capable of the responsibility, but the cat, which he has named Baby, has had a positive effect on his mental health, helping him regain his confidence and giving him a renewed purpose in life.

"When I first moved into my flat, all I could think about was getting a pet," said Wayne. "I really wanted a companion, but I didn't think I was ready to be a pet owner. When Baby jumped through my window, I was really worried about looking after him, but it's been a revelation."

"I love coming home to find Baby curled up on my bed. Not only does he keep me company and make me happier, but now I have to budget buying him cat food every week - so he's helping me with day-to-day life skills. He eats better than I do!"

"Now I'm responsible for another life, it's a huge incentive not to reoffend or start using again. I would hate for either Baby or myself to end up on our own again."

Paws for thought: Wayne with Baby the cat

Pilot scheme will see patrols targeting litter louts

PRIVATE enforcement officers are to patrol the borough handing out on-the-spot £80 fines to people who drop litter on the street under a pilot scheme agreed by the council.

Fixed penalty fines will be issued to those over 18 who are seen to drop or dump rubbish or allow their dogs to foul the streets.

The litter wardens will be provided by private firm Kingdom Security, which the council has contracted as part of a nine-month trial starting on November 21. People who spit out chewing gum or drop a cigarette butts will be slapped with a fine by the enforcement officers who will wear body cameras with footage from them used as evidence in potential civil or criminal court proceedings.

Litter bugs under 18 will have their names taken and their parents written to.

Haringey Council says it is stepping up enforcement in areas where there are persistent problems.

It is not the first local authority to contract out enforcement, but in some parts of the country the measure has been beset with controversy with a string of complaints about the methods used by the private wardens, including intimidation, heavy handedness and going for easy targets while ignoring those who could pose them a risk.

The council says the £120,000-a-year cost of the contract will be covered by the money collected from the penalty fines.

Community campaigner Martin Ball, who lives in Tottenham Hale, said: "The tougher action is welcomed if it targets fly-tippers and the disregard businesses have for waste collection times, but not if it's 'soft' targets to generate and income for Kingdom."

However, the council is confident the pilot provides a balanced approach to cracking down on the small minority of people who deliberately drop litter instead of putting it in a bin or taking it home to dispose of.

"The vast majority of people in Haringey are proud of where they live and do the right thing, yet there are a small minority of people who drop litter or fly-tip," said the council's cabinet member for environment Peray Ahmet.

"There is no excuse for this behaviour and as a community we should no longer tolerate it. Tougher enforcement is designed to act as a deterrent and make people think again before dropping litter on our streets."

Going back to the old skool...

HUNDREDS of former playground pals and schoolchums are set to meet up again 40 years after they last saw one another.

As many as 300 ex-pupils who went to Wood Green comprehensive school between 1975 and 1979 are to gather for a reunion at a Hornsey nightspot on the evening of Saturday, November 19.

Ken Martin, 53, has spent the last three months using social media to track down former ex-pupils as well as teachers at the school in White Hart Lane, which changed its name to White Hart Lane Comprehensive in 1983 before becoming Woodside High School in 2006.

"I loved my time at the school and many others also seem to have fond memories, especially of some of the teachers," he said.

"We have ex-pupils coming from far afield, including one from Norfolk and one from Fife in Scotland. "The venue is @Funky Brownz in Tottenham Lane. One of the main DJs is a former pupil who will be spinning some of the tracks we loved from our school-days," added Mr Martin.

He is appealing for former pupils he has not yet contacted to get in touch by calling 07521 982854.

Community spirit

HARINGEY is all set to celebrate the borough's voluntary and community groups in an awards ceremony at Tottenham Town Hall.

The first Haringey Community Expo will take place on Friday, November 25, and feature exhibitions, activities and performances by a number of organisations.

Awards will be given to unsung heroes who have made a big difference to people's lives.

Shop owners are driven round the bend by cycle lanes work

By Clare Casey

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

CONSTRUCTION on the first phase of the £42million Cycle Enfield scheme is causing mayhem for the livelihoods of businesses, they claimed this week.

Shops at Mason's Corner, in Winchmore Hill, are blocked by diggers, barricades and traffic cones, making it virtually impossible for customers to stop in cars.

Adelphia Continental Food closed three weeks ago and a poster in the shuttered shop reads: "Let's ruin local businesses and the community - all for a cycle superhighway to nowhere."

Almost every non-chain business along the high streets of Winchmore Hill and Palmers Green is protesting about the new cycle route that promises to "transform the borough into routes with Dutch-inspired segregated bike lanes, where people feel safe to cycle and want to spend more time".

Enfield is one of three outer London boroughs receiving millions of pounds in funding from Transport for London to encourage more people to cycle.

The A105 from Green Lanes to Park Avenue is the first stretch of highway to undergo construction work.

Italian deli owner Roberto Chiappa said: "I am worried."

"The council hasn't listened to us. More than 70 per cent of people voted against it, but it was pushed through."

ANNE-MARIE SANDERSON

Facing an uncertain future: Florists Wendy and Malcolm Slaughter and Roberto Chiappa in his delicatessen

Retailers have been warned to expect some upheaval in the months ahead as work to install new segregated cycle routes and pedestrianised walkways is carried out.

Helen Osman, who has lived in Old Park Ridings, Winchmore Hill, for nearly 30 years and is one of several residents leading the Save Our Green Lanes campaign against the new cycle routes, said: "We know these businesses are reliant on customers who park. If there's no parking, they'll lose business and they can't afford to do that."

Enfield Council says the scheme will make Enfield a more attractive place to live, work and visit.

Wendy and Malcolm Slaughter, who own Riverside Florist, in Ridge Avenue, have been there for 50 years, but had it been three or four they would be struggling to survive.

Mr Slaughter said: "Everyone knows us, we have been here for years, but this is hard. We rely on passing trade, but if we're lucky if we get six people through the door at the moment."

"We have huge delivery lorries coming from Holland, but they can't stop outside now. I will always listen to sense, but I am struggling to see any in this scheme. I don't think they have fully thought this through, even the cyclists you talk to don't want it."

A council spokesman said: "We are working as quickly as we can to complete this world-class, exciting infrastructure project, but as with any major scheme, there will be some disruption while work is carried out and we would ask people to be patient while we complete this work."

'Silent soldiers' serve as a Remembrance reminder

By Priya Kingsley-Adam

priya.kingsley-adam@nlhnews.co.uk

IMAGINE coming face to face with a soldier in full military uniform from World War I.

That's what visitors to a church have in Enfield Town encountered as part of commemorations to honour the borough's war dead in the run-up to Remembrance Sunday this weekend.

Volunteers from the congregation at St Andrew's Church have been patrolling it dressed as World War I and World War II soldiers for a few hours each day.

They do not speak to visitors, but instead hand out a name of a fallen soldier who lived in Enfield.

The "silent soldiers" are just one of a number of special commemorative events, including displays, which are being held in churches across the borough this week to remind the community of the hundreds of soldiers from Enfield who lost their lives in both conflicts.

At St Andrew's, a biographies tent has been set up, where visitors can learn about the lives of soldiers serving in both world wars, as well as those who fought in other conflicts across the globe.

"Reading about the soldiers' lives will hopefully connect people to the reality of what they went through," explained St

Andrew's vicar Reverend Steve Griffiths.

There are also interactive activities whereby visitors can make paper doves and write prayers on paper hands.

Visitors to Christ Church, in The Green, Southgate, will get a snapshot of the lives of World War I soldiers who fought at the Battle of the Somme 100 years ago.

Churchwarden Phillip Dawson, 37, carried out a year's research into the 146 names of the soldiers which are presented on a wooden tablet in the church and a selection of biographies are on display.

He was successful in researching up to 80 per cent of the soldiers and even the streets in which they lived before they went to war.

A poster of a map will also be on display with poppies marking where each known soldier lived.

"Many people in the community may not know about our local soldiers or that there was a soldier who lived virtually in every street in the parish – so it really brings it home," said Mr Dawson.

Reverend Dr Chrichton Limbert, vicar of Christ Church, said it is very important that the community did not forget those who had sacrificed their lives.

"By reading their stories people can put a face to the names of the soldiers – men who were members of our church," he added.

Generous Fraser raises funds for Martin

EIGHT-year-old Fraser Bull is single-handedly raising £5,000 to buy a vital aid for a family friend who was left paralysed from the neck down following a cycling accident.

The youngster is raising the funds to buy 42-year-old Martin Dyce a special standing frame by running in a five-kilometre charity race at the Queen Elizabeth Olympic Park in December.

The schoolboy set up an online crowdfunding page to appeal for sponsorship less than a week ago and has already received £4,415 in donations towards his £5,000 target.

Fraser, from Winchmore Hill, hopes his efforts will make life easier for wheelchair-bound Martin, who suffered horrific spinal injuries when he slammed into the back of a bus on his bike two years ago.

The standing frame is not available on the NHS and will give Martin support in the standing position to improve his muscle strength, circulation, kidney and bladder functions.

Fraser came up with the idea for a sponsored run after he came first in a cross country race at Highgate Junior School, where he is a pupil.

"Martin is a special friend – he's a really nice person and I really want him to use the frame because it will help him to stand up," said Fraser.

"I am a bit nervous about the run in the Olympic Park, but I reckon I can do it."

He will take part in the race alongside his mother Bernadette.

Former architectural art technician Martin, from south London, said the frame would benefit him enormously.

"Because I use the wheelchair every day, I've got used to not doing the things I previously did, but the standing frame will help greatly – especially with my mental state," he said.

"I'm a six foot tall guy, but at the moment when I talk to people I'm facing their waist, so it will be nice to be at eye level.

"Fraser is a great friend. It's people like him who make it worth waking up in the morning," added Martin.

Attention: DENTURE WEARERS

If you are a denture wearer then this article may be of some interest to you!!
If you can relate to any of the following questions then it is a sign your denture needs attention:

- DO YOU FIND YOUR DENTURES:
- Do not fit as well on your gums as they used to?
- Are they loose?
- Do not cut food as well as they used to?
- Do they make your face look older?
- Have discoloured despite meticulous cleaning or
- Cause discomfort/pain on chewing?

If any of the above breeds familiar territory then I may be able to alleviate some of these problems for you.

My name is Caroline Persaud I am a qualified CLINICAL DENTAL TECHNICIAN. Many of you may be aware of Dental Technicians/Mechanics who repair and produce dentures for dentists, however, due to recent changes in the Dental law, a group of Dental Care Professionals known as Clinical Dental Technicians have been approved by the General Dental Council and can now see denture wearers who have no natural teeth remaining, directly without having to visit a dentist.

The advantages to you, the patients, are numerous. You can be treated by a professional who has been clinically trained to undertake the impressions of your mouth and who also has the technical skill to manufacture your denture to meet your requirements.

A more direct, rapid and personalised service, that can be delivered to you in the comfort of your own home or at my day clinic in Edmonton.

If you wish to discuss any denture related issues please do not hesitate to contact me on:

THOUSANDS flocked to watch the firework extravaganza at The Walker Ground in Southgate on Saturday to celebrate bonfire night.

The annual event raises funds for The Walker Ground Trust, which provides a number of sporting facilities at the ground, in Waterfall Road.

Visitors enjoyed watching a colourful display of fireworks which were followed by music.

Stalls offered a variety of food including hot dogs and Caribbean specialities.

A selection of sweet treats was also available such as candy floss, popcorn and doughnuts.

Children's activities included face painting and a bouncy castle.

"It was a superb event," said Vicky Prow, events and marketing manager at The Walker Ground.

Terror as firework rips through flat

Mum's ordeal as youths go on rampage

By Clare Casey
newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

A WOMAN and her son were subjected to a terrifying ordeal by a mob of masked youths who recklessly launching fireworks on Halloween.

The rampaging teenagers, who had their faces covered to hide their identities, launched a lit firework through the open balcony doors of her flat, in Hertford Road, Enfield Highway, causing hundreds of pounds worth of damage.

The firework tore through the room at high speed scorching everything in its wake, burning through chairs, carpet and skirting boards.

Angela Bailey, 39, said: "It was absolutely terrifying.

"I had the doors open and heard all the commotion on the street. I looked out and there were loads of teenagers with their faces covered up, throwing fireworks at cars and people.

"I shouted at them to stop and then one came whizzing past me and into my home.

Ms Bailey manages the Harrison Funeral Home branch in Hertford Road, and lives in the flat above with her eight-year-old son Jack.

Police confirmed they were called to Hertford Road, at the junction with Addison Road, following reports of a large crowd of youths firing fireworks in a public place at about 9.45pm on Monday last week.

The road was temporarily closed as they tried to disrupt the group armed with fireworks ,who then turned their attentions on the cops, firing at them.

A police spokesman said: "No arrests were made. A criminal damage report was completed after a local business was damaged as a result of fireworks thrown.

"Inquiries are ongoing."

Ms Bailey sealed up her letterbox in case the teenagers returned and said that her son had been shaken by the ordeal.

She said: "The police who came were amazing. One of them stayed and talked to my son for about an hour and a half, reassuring him.

"I can't praise them enough."

Despite the attack, she is resolute on uniting the area and promoting Enfield.

Three months ago she set up a Facebook page called We Love Our Highway following a mass brawl on the same spot. It now has 500 members.

At the time, 200 youths staged running battles for up to an hour after a late-night party erupted into violence in Hertford Road, near the junction with Green Street.

She added: "This is a good area and if we all stick together and let the few who are trying to spoil things know we are resilient they will go away."

Go back to the drawing board: Enfield Southgate MP David Burrowes and Monty Meth, president of Enfield Over 50s Forum, have warned that proposals to redraw constituency boundaries will undermine community cohesion and leave people under-represented

Boundary plans ‘need a rethink’

By Julia Gregory
julia.gregory@nlhnews.co.uk

PROPOSALS to redraw constituency boundaries would undo the hard work undertaken in Enfield to bring diverse communities together, a group representing the borough’s 50-plus residents has warned.

As part of a proposed shake-up of parliamentary constituencies, Enfield Southgate would be split up.

However, Enfield Over 50s Forum, which represents more than 6,000 people, has urged the Boundary Commission to think again.

In a submission to a consultation, forum president Monty Meth said that the commission was “destroying many years hard work by all political parties and voluntary sector organisations in seeking to create an environment where our many diverse communities come together under a single local authority”.

If the plans go ahead, 60,000 residents in the Cockfosters, Southgate, Southgate Green, Winchmore Hill and Bowes wards would be divided between three constituencies – Finchley and Southgate, Hornsey and Wood Green and Chipping Barnet and Mill Hill.

The three constituencies include areas covered by three borough councils – Enfield, Barnet and Haringey.

Mr Meth said the plan “must undermine the community cohesion and community allegiance we have created and achieved in Enfield”.

He said the current situation with electors represented by MPs for Enfield Southgate, Enfield North and Edmonton works well and should not be changed. By 2020-22, it is predicted there will be 220,000 electors in the current constituencies which would “justify retaining the three MPs,” he said.

Mr Meth added that if the changes went ahead residents would be represented by Enfield councillors but “under-represented by MPs whose major interests must inevitably lie with different boroughs and local authorities containing the majority of their constituency”.

The current Enfield Southgate MP David Burrowes is campaigning against the Boundary Commission proposals.

Mr Meth said that Mr Burrowes had told him he was worried about “splintered representation in Enfield”.

He added: “It cannot be in Enfield’s best interests for Enfield Southgate to split across constituencies where two wards, Cockfosters and Bowes, would be orphaned to Barnet and Haringey constituencies. It also does not make community or geographical sense for Southgate wards to be fused to Finchley wards and become a minority interest.”

Parties in bust-up over leaked email

Councillor's message from America angers Tories

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

HILLARY Clinton wasn't the only one at the centre of an email controversy as the US presidential election loomed – Enfield councillor Katherine Chibah found herself in the spotlight, too.

The Labour member for Turkey Street ward, who is in the United States to view the elections in a personal capacity, sparked a storm with an email sent to explain her absence.

Furious Tories clashed with Labour after the email was leaked, with both sides accusing each other of failing to take their role of scrutinising council decisions seriously.

In the email, in which she informed colleagues that she would not be able to attend the overview and scrutiny committee meeting tomorrow night (Thursday), Ms Chibah accused the Tories of "absolutely playing silly games" over four council decisions they had called-in to be scrutinised.

They include the council's worsening finances and its £7.9million overspend, the loss of tennis courts because of the expansion of Edmonton Cemetery, the introduction of fortnightly green bin collections and the refurbishment of Enfield Highway Library.

Ms Chibah, who is in America with Southgate Green councillor Claire Stewart, asks if someone can cover for her, describing the call-ins as "vexatious" and adding: "We need someone who can give them (the Tories) a hard time (and direct questions at them rather than at the cabinet member concerned)."

This week the Conservatives condemned her remarks, calling for her to be removed from her position on the committee for which she is paid an extra £8,400 special responsibility allowance on top of the basic £10,570 councillors receive.

"I don't think when the people discover the council budget is out of control they will think we are playing silly games," said Conservative group leader Terry Neville.

"The email shows she has no concept of the role of a scrutiny member and seems to believe the role of an overview and scrutiny councillor is to protect fellow Labour councillors from questioning."

"If the council leadership has any regard for the council tax payers of Enfield, she would be asked to stand down from her position immediately," he added.

But Labour hit back, claiming the Conservatives had showed little evidence of commitment to scrutiny themselves.

"This is ridiculous nonsense by the Tories," said Labour group deputy leader Achilleas Georgiou. "These are the same Tories who walk out of council meetings, fail to turn up to cabinet meetings or read scrutiny papers, but are happy to take their allowances."

Democratic Party candidate Mrs Clinton, who will find out today whether she has beaten Republican rival Donald Trump to be elected president of the United States, has faced criticism over her use of a private email server while she was Secretary of State.

Driving home the safety message

THE dangers of being under the influence behind the wheel have been highlighted in a theatre show, spurring hundreds of sixth formers to sign a pledge to drive safely.

Year 12 pupils from a number of Enfield secondary schools watched the Safe Drive, Stay Alive performance put on by the council at Millfield Theatre, in Silver Street, Edmonton.

The theatre-based education production was aimed at hammering home the dangers of speeding, peer pressure and driving while drunk or under the influence of drugs as well as the importance of wearing seat belts.

After watching the performance, students had the chance of signing the pledge in which they had to agree to the terms of not using a handheld mobile phone while driving, or being under the influence of drugs or drink.

They also agreed to adhere to speed limits and to always wear a seat belt when in a vehicle.

Members of the emergency services shared real-life testimonies with the students about accidents they had been called to relating to dangerous driving.

Relatives who had lost family members in accidents caused by dangerous driving, also spoke during the performance.

"The impact of a serious road accident often has a harrowing impact on the people involved and can have life-changing consequences," said Daniel Anderson, Enfield Council's cabinet member for environment.

He said it was "encouraging" that so many students and young people had recognised the seriousness of driving "responsibly".

"Hopefully, initiatives like this will help reduce the likelihood of serious accidents happening on our roads," added Mr Anderson.

Cloudy2Clear Announce Trusted Trader Partnership

Consumer champions Which? have now joined the thousands of customers who recognise that Cloudy2Clear Windows really are a business that you can TRUST. The company which specialises in repairing windows which are steamed up, broken or damaged by replacing the panes – not the frames has received the coveted 'Which? Trusted Trader' status after going through a rigorous accreditation process entirely focussed on customer service.

Group Managing Director Marcus McGee believes that Which? have endorsed Cloudy2Clear's long standing company policy of delivering the highest standards possible at all times. "Our service is simple. If your double glazing has misted up we can replace the glass at a fraction of the cost of a new window, in any type of frame, and with a new 25 year guarantee. But it's not just about saving people money, although that obviously helps. Whilst a number of tradespeople perhaps don't focus on customer care as much as they should do, we make sure we turn up when we say we will, do the job the customer requires and leave their house as clean as a whistle.

Locally Cloudy2Clear service the Enfield, Edmonton, Palmers Green, Winchmore Hill & Southgate areas and manager Richard Power agrees that this approach is a major factor in his success. "The truth is that it's not just the personal satisfaction that I get from doing a good job but also it makes good business sense. I get a huge amount of business from friends and family of people I've done work for, which just goes to show how much a little bit of effort is appreciated as both my customers and, obviously a body as nationally important as Which? now recognise."

So, if your windows are steamed up, broken or damaged give Richard a call for a free quotation on 0800 61 21 118 and he'll be happy to help!

THE sounds, smells and magic of Christmas are everywhere at Millfield Theatre and Forty Hall as rehearsals get under way for our biggest family events of the year.

The final touches are being put on the musical scores and dance routines of this year's pantomime Aladdin at Millfield Theatre while our theatre technicians are building the gorgeous sets designed by Japanese designer Sonoko Obuchi.

Our volunteers are also hard at it as they delve into Forty Hall's rich history to create the Forty Hall Candlelight Tours which this year takes us back in time to visit the ghosts of Christmas Past from the 1940s, 1880s and the 1640s.

It'll really feel like Christmas on Sunday November 27 when the Enfield Christmas Parade of Lights sets off from the Civic Centre at 4pm and arriving back in the Town Centre at around 5.45pm as we all sing Christmas carols as the Mayor of Enfield turns on the lights to the Christmas tree on Fountain Island.

One of Enfield's great characters Ajjay Trashy also has a wonderful exhibition of his infamous miniature artworks at the Dugdale Centre throughout November and December. He creates his "Incredibly Shrinking Works" in his traveling studio (a battered old suitcase) in cafes and public spaces throughout London.

The work is really collectable and is very much in the Outsider Art genre of art. He's recently been shown in galleries in hipster Shoreditch but I'm thrilled he's bringing his cutting edge works back to show in Enfield.

Young scouts are shining lights in our community

THIS is Scout Community Week and I'm super proud of the difference the 4th Enfield Scout Group is making in the community.

This year the 4th Enfield Scout Group has chosen to focus on sight loss.

This means, thanks to Scout-ing's award-winning campaign, A Million Hands, Scouts have spent time learning about the issue, finding out about the people it affects and taking meaningful action to improve and support their quality of life in Enfield.

I would also like to recognise the volunteers at the 4th Enfield Scout Group for their dedication each week to giving Scouts the chance to have fun and adventure and take part in life-changing opportunities through the A Million Hands project.

A Million Hands celebrated its one-year anniversary in October and it's down to the 200,000 members who have signed up to take part, such as the 4th Enfield Scout Group, that the past year has been such a success.

During this special week, I would just like to say "a million thanks" to these incredible Scouts. They really are shining lights in their community

Sign the petition and redress the unfairness

HAVING recently recovered from surgery, A and E, in and outpatient treatment in the Royal Free (Chase Farm and Barnet) and North Middlesex hospitals, we're grateful for the opportunity offered in these pages to thank the NHS staff of all nationalities and backgrounds for their skill, dedication and kindness in protecting all three of us from potentially life-threatening conditions.

To them, we were simply "retired". Our treatment matched that of other patients. We pay tribute to the 1945 Labour government vision of a National Health Service, which ensures good health and well-being for all, the most fundamental of equalities, free at the point of use.

The economic argument for universal health care, too, is compelling because a healthy population is resilient, resourceful and hard-working.

Which is why we want to take the opportunity of our own good fortune and gratitude to remind residents that our local and public health services are chronically underfunded, a long-standing injustice compounded by the unprecedented cuts in government funding for Enfield which leave us with less than £500 compared with £900 per head for some London boroughs.

We want to ensure that Enfield spouses and that the sick and vulnerable are cared for. We urge every resident in

Enfield to support the over 50s forum petition for Fair Funding for Enfield at <https://www.change.org/p/enfield-borough-over-50s-forum-fairer-funding-for-enfield>

In a rush to tackle homelessness

AS a Shelter supporter, I was heartbroken to find out about the growing number of homeless families in Haringey.

As a mum, I can't imagine how difficult it must be to tell your children they have to leave the safety and security of their home.

This is a problem that's happening on your doorstep. In fact, 541 families in Haringey became homeless in the last year alone, which is an increase of 85 per cent on the number who became homeless five years ago.

That's why on March 9, 2017, I'll be taking part in Vertical Rush – Shelter's tower-running challenge at London's iconic Tower 42.

It's the second time I've taken part and I'll be helping the charity raise a massive £260,000 to help families facing homelessness in the capital.

Shelter's been tirelessly fighting bad housing and homelessness for 50 years but, despite their successes, there is still a long way to go.

So join me and sign up to power up the Tower at shelter.org.uk/vertical-rush – with your help Shelter will not rest until every child has a place to call home.

Where is the cash to fund this going to come from?

IN response to the question ("Is Cycle Enfield money well spent? Only time will tell", Advertiser, October 26), when we come to review the scheme, let's not forget that the projected total cost is £42million, of which 71.42 per cent (£30m) is funded by Transport for London, leaving Enfield Council to fund the remaining 28.58 per cent (£12m).

Councillor Daniel Anderson should tell us where this money is coming from – reserves, or revenue? If revenue, from which budgets and what are the consequences of those cuts?

Secondly, Anthony Fisher asks about the safety of bus passengers boarding and alighting from buses directly from and on to cycle lanes.

This same question was asked on June 22 at a meeting organised by Enfield Over 50s Forum and addressed by a council officer on the health benefits of Cycle Enfield.

A cyclist at the meeting assured us that there was no problem as competent cyclists, of which he is one, would not use the cycle lane. He said that those in the cycle lane would have plenty of time to stop, presumably because they would be going so slowly. I hope we all feel reassured now.

Finally, I would like to propose that when the current works along Ridge Avenue are completed, including the moving of the zebra crossing to the north of Green Dragon Lane, the council activates the new bus stops, thereby forcing buses to stop in the middle of the carriageway.

This is an ideal opportunity for the council to monitor the scheme's effects on pedestrians, bus users, the shops on Mason's Corner and, dare I say it, traffic – but will the council have the good sense or guts to do so? I doubt it.

FAMILY ANNOUNCEMENTS

Mum's the word as Joanna wins award for supporting role

By Priya Kingsley-Adam

priya.kingsley-adam@nlhnews.co.uk

A CHARITY worker has been given a prestigious award for going the "extra mile" in offering support to expectant and new parents.

Joanna Brett, who works for the Enfield branch of the National Childbirth Trust's, was presented with the practitioner behind the scenes honour at the trust's Star Awards at City Hall.

The accolade is awarded to practitioners who have provided vital support to parents from the charity's branches.

The 41-year-old, of Riverside Gardens, Enfield, provides counselling each week at drop-in sessions for mothers who are concerned about breastfeeding.

She helps with issues such as having problems with babies latching on or learning how to wean them on to bottles.

She said the "key" to counselling is listening to the concerns of mothers on how they should tackle the obstacles surrounding breastfeeding and then talking through the options they can take.

"Breastfeeding can be quite scary for mothers, especially if it's a new experience for them, so it's important to find out what they find most difficult and then working through it with them," said Joanna.

Her award also recognised the vital role she plays in recruiting people for the peer support scheme where parents can receive further support and advice on breastfeeding.

Joanna provides weekly drop-in sessions in at children's centres in Lavender Road, Trinity Street and St Andrew's Church, in Enfield, Salisbury Road, in Enfield Lock, and Eldon Road, in Edmonton.

She received her award from Virginia Campbell, head of the National Childbirth Trust college, who said: "The Star Awards are a great way to thank some of our fabulous practitioners, who play a vital role by providing high-quality courses and workshops for new parents. Joanna is someone who has gone the extra mile to support parents and richly deserves her accolade."

Joanna added: "I felt honoured to receive the award and I was absolutely delighted that it recognised the work we have done at our branch."

Honoured: Joanna Brett receives the National Childbirth Trust award from Virginia Campbell

Pooling resources to clean polluted water

By Julia Gregory

julia.gregory@nlhnews.co.uk

A RECORD number of green "Rainscapes" is helping Enfield lead the way in tackling water pollution in the capital.

Thousands of people helped green charity Thames21 and Enfield Council create the special green spaces which treat polluted water from 473 hectares in the borough.

The nine Rainscapes – or sustainable drainage systems – cost more than £1million and have been created over the past four years.

More than 13,000 people went to community events to share their ideas for the green spots, including Firs Farm Wetlands, in Winchmore Hill/Palmers Green, or helped plant them.

The scheme aims to clean up dirty water, while improving parks and getting residents involved in caring for the environment.

It attracted £1m in extra cash from the Environment Agency, the Greater London Authority, Thames Water and the Department for the Environment, Food and Rural Affairs.

The council's cabinet member for environment Daniel Anderson said: "Working with Thames21 on these Rainscapes has given us the chance to deliver our objectives on improved green spaces, community cohesion and to bring in external investment."

Enfield's principal drainage engineer Ian Russell, who helped create the Rainscapes, said: "Green infrastructure is cheaper and more effective than traditional piped systems."

"It can even save money as wetlands require less maintenance overall. They lock up carbon and save on the carbon cost of regular mowing, and because they bring nature back, local people are more interested in helping to look after them."

Mr Anderson said it was important to get the community involved.

"These Rainscapes are spaces for people as well as a way of tackling flooding and water quality," he added.

Thames 21 studies show that the Rainscapes help improve water quality, boost the number of invertebrates in the water and cut the amount of coliform bacteria.

Aimee Felus, healthy river challenge co-ordinator, said that polluting nitrates had been reduced by 68 per cent on one site.

She added: "These spaces have become places which people want to visit and protect."

Sticking to the best of tradition

By Clare Casey

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

RETIREMENT didn't suit Jalao Uddin.

After running a successful string of Bangladeshi and Indian restaurants in north London, Mr Uddin found that life with pipe and slippers wasn't for him.

So, three months ago – following a brief stint as an African restaurant – Bengal Bertie's, in Ballards Lane, North Finchley, reopened.

It's a traditional Indian restaurant, with velvet booths, chandeliers, wooden floors and a beautiful bathroom, fit to rival any hotel.

It was quiet when we visited, at about 9pm on a Saturday, with just another couple and two others.

But maybe Bengal Bertie's fan base eat at home – it has been shortlisted from thousands of rivals as one of the top ten local takeaways in north London in the British Takeaway Awards.

The smartly dressed staff were helpful and friendly, happy to make suggestions and recommendations, according to customers' tastes and preferred temperature.

Sayeeb Uddin, 25, Jalao's son, took our order – a vegetarian platter and chicken chat.

The platter consisted of an onion bhaji, vegetable samosa and aloo pakora.

The chicken chat was delicious, falling apart and richly infused with rich tomato and masala.

But the pakora was a disappointment, too greasy by half.

THE GANNETS

Bengal Bertie's, Ballards Lane, North Finchley

Mr Uddin (junior) told us the kitchen's speciality is tandoori and balti dishes and locals love the Haryali chicken masala – green chicken baked in a marinade of spinach, mint and coriander puree, served in a creamy sauce.

We opted to share Bertie's chef special – tender lamb roasted and slow cooked with a blend of fresh and dried spices, finished with chef's (secret) sauce, chicken tikka dhansak, garlic naan and tarka daahl (lentils with fried garlic) and fluffy pilau rice.

The main courses were an absolute success, fresh, flavoursome and fiery.

They serve Kingfisher on draught and bottles of Cobra, as well as house wine and fizz.

And should Jalao decide to retire, business-savvy Sayeeb is ready to take the reins.

Reopened: Bengal Bertie's is a traditional Indian restaurant, in Ballards Lane, North Finchley

Volunteer with Young people in Enfield

Recipe for a perfect Christmas pudding:

140g vegetable suet
140g demerara sugar
75g soft flour
75g breadcrumbs
30g lemon juice
4g nutmeg
1 pinch salt
20g jam
90ml Irish stout

1 grated apple
500g marinated fruit (see below)
2 eggs
200g walnuts

For the marinated fruit:

100g dry apples
100g raisins

100g dry apricots
100g dry cranberries
100g golden raisins
20g navy rum
40ml brandy
20ml kirsch
Juice and zest of 1/2 an orange
Juice and zest of 1/2 a lemon

- ☆ Marinate the dry fruit for two months, adding more liquor if necessary.
  - ☆ Butter the pudding basins.
  - ☆ Mix all the ingredients in a large bowl, ensuring that there are no pockets of flour or breadcrumbs.
  - ☆ Pour the mixture into the buttered basins and cover with a circle of greaseproof paper and aluminium foil. Tie firmly with a string.
  - ☆ Put the basin in a pan, add boiling water to a quarter of the way up the basins, cover and steam for at least four hours. Top up with water if needed.
- The longer the mixture is steamed, the darker it will get. Steam for another hour before serving.

Win a Family Ticket for Beauty and the Hulk

Don't make him angry! Beauty and the Hulk offers you a super twist on the traditional panto - and we have a family ticket to give away for the 6.30pm performance at Edmonton's Millfield Theatre on January 6th 2017.

From the Platinum Team which brought you Snow White and the Seven Superheroes last year we have another cast of Marvel-ous characters including, of course, the not-so-beasty Hulk!

For your chance to win, just answer this question:

Bruce Banner turns into the Hulk when he's:

a) Happy b) Bored c) Angry

Send your answer, with your name, address and daytime telephone number to: Beauty and the Hulk Competition, North London & Herts Newspapers, 187 Baker Street, Enfield EN1 3JT or send your answer, with contact details to our email at: competitions@nlhnews.co.uk with "Beauty and the Hulk" in the subject line, by noon on Thursday November 17th 2016.

Win a Family Ticket for Aladdin

Aladdin is bringing his magic lamp to the Millfield Theatre in Edmonton - and you can take a ride on his magic carpet with a family ticket up for grabs! Will Widow Twanky find romance? Will Wishee Washee prove his worth? Will Aladdin finally marry Princess Jasmine? All will be revealed this Christmas!

MILLFIELD THEATRE

For your chance to win a family ticket (2 adults and 2 children) complete the following sentence:

Aladdin and his Magic: a) Chicken b) Wardrobe c) Lamp

Send your answer, with your name, address and daytime telephone number to: Aladdin Competition, North London & Herts Newspapers, 187 Baker Street, Enfield EN1 3JT or send your answer, with contact details to our email at: competitions@nlhnews.co.uk with "Millfield Aladdin" in the subject line, by noon on Thursday November 17th 2016.

to Chickenshed's world premiere of a brand new musical for the festive period, Adventure to Oz!

But there is a slight problem...the intrepid adventurers, including the Incredible Patchwork Girl and Ojo the Unlucky Munchkin, need to find the one and only Woozy to complete their quest. The problem is they don't really know what he looks like - can you help? All they know is that he is square, with stubby four-sided legs and three hairs on the end of his tail...!

Draw us your idea of what the Woozy looks like and the one that looks most like Woozy in our show will win a family ticket to see Adventure to Oz! (Judges' decision on resemblance is final!)

‘Growing old is not optional’

A CARE home is to be demolished and rebuilt to meet the increasing demand for people with dementia.

The 12 nursing homes in the borough are operating at full capacity and Enfield Council is hoping that the new 70-80 bed property will relieve future pressure on places.

The existing care home at Coppice Wood Lodge, in Grove Road, New Southgate, which is due to be demolished, consists of 38 beds and will be rebuilt with three floors.

Alev Cazimoglu, the council's cabinet member for health and social care, has said that the new home will provide more personal space and privacy for the residents and will allow them to “live with dignity in a stimulating setting”.

Coppice Wood Lodge residents will be re-homed at Elizabeth House, in Hertford Road, Enfield Highway, until the new care home is ready.

Ms Cazimoglu said: “Growing old is not optional. It happens to everyone and we have a duty of care to the people in this borough who have lived, worked and paid their taxes here to provide first-class nursing care to those who need additional support when they become older and frail. The new care home will enable us to do precisely that.”

One return every retailer will welcome

We recently commissioned the effectiveness consultancy Benchmarking to analyse what happens when a company includes press advertising in their media mix.

They examined over 500 econometric models, covering a five-year period.

In the retail sector they analysed results from supermarkets, department stores and high street chains.

And they found that adding newspapers dramatically boosts other media, increasing the overall effectiveness of the entire campaign, by up to 2.8 times.

In an industry where a few percentage points are often seized on as a signal of runaway success or imminent disaster, this is a truly remarkable return on investment.

And as the table here shows, retail is far from the only category where newspapers deliver outstanding results.

Increased effectiveness using newspapers

Stephen swings into town...

Uncanny resemblance:
Stephen Triffitt as
Frank Sinatra

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

FRANK Sinatra left more than a legacy of great performances and iconic songs – he spawned a worldwide industry of tribute artists.

There are soundalikes and lookie-likes earning a living impersonating Ol' Blue Eyes all over the globe.

Stephen Triffitt is billed as the "world's number one" Sinatra tribute act and on Saturday at Edmonton's Millfield Theatre the audience will get the chance to see why when he brings his Frankly Sinatra show to the Silver Street venue.

It celebrates the 50th anniversary of the legendary crooner's most famous recording – Sinatra Live at the Sands.

The recording at the hotel in Las Vegas was Sinatra's definitive live performance.

Stephen, 54, is a Brit who discovered by chance he sounded like Sinatra singing in a karaoke bar.

That led to a runners-up spot 15 years ago in the final of TV talent contest Stars In Your Eyes – and a dazzling career that's taken him all over the world, even playing Sinatra in a film.

Like the great man, Stephen too has played Las Vegas, performing for three seasons at the swanky Venetian Hotel that stands on the former site of the Sands Hotel.

Stephen also appeared as Sinatra in the West End production of The Rat Pack Live From Las Vegas and has twice sold out The London Palladium as well as The Royal Festival Hall.

Backed by a small but impressive 12-piece orchestra providing the big band swing sound, Stephen's resemblance to Sinatra is uncanny.

Not only does he have the velvety vocals and the phrasing, he even has all his physical mannerisms. It wouldn't be hard to imagine you were watching the swingmaster himself sitting on a stool sipping bourbon on the rocks as he performed for the high rollers at the Sands Hotel Copa Rooms.

Stephen treats you to all the favourites – Come Fly With Me, Tender Trap, The Lady Is A Tramp, Witchcraft, Strangers In The Night, Fly Me To The Moon, Luck Be A Lady, Mack The Knife, New York, New York and, of course, Sinatra's signature tune My Way.

Close encounter

ARRIVAL (12A, 116 mins)

COCCOONED in the tiny bubbles that constitute our lives, planet Earth seems huge – a polluted rock cluttered with billions of competing lifeforms, whose paths rarely intersect.

As our world turns, we rarely look past national borders, let alone tilt our heads to the stars and contemplate how insignificant we are in the vast expanse of space.

It seems inconceivable that of all the planets we can see with the most powerful telescopes or probes, and the millions that will remain forever hidden, only our astronomical home is capable of sustaining intelligent life.

The greater surprise, surely, would be that we are alone.

Based on a short story by Ted Chiang, Arrival is contemplative science fiction drama, which imagines mankind's shambolic reaction to first contact with an otherworldly race and the dangerous fractures that would appear as nations disagree over the best course of action.

If governments can't cooperate over the environment, finance and immigration, what hope is there when we collectively face a possible extinction event?

Director Denis Villeneuve and screenwriter Eric Heisserer aren't interested in Independence Day-style pyrotechnics, although their film is punctuated with impressive special effects sequences.

Like Close Encounters Of The Third Kind, Arrival philosophises and digests before it considers locking and loading a weapon.

Twelve giant obloid spacecraft enter Earth's atmosphere and descend over seemingly random locations including Devon, the Black Sea and a lush meadow in Montana.

US Army Colonel Weber (Forest Whitaker) leads the American response and he recruits emotionally scarred linguistics expert Dr Louise Banks (Amy Adams) to decipher a coded language used by the visitors.

Banishing painful memories of her daughter's death, Louise aligns with military scientist Ian Donnelly (Jeremy Renner) to unravel the conundrum, while the CIA, led by Agent Halpern (Michael Stuhlbarg), considers the terrifying possibility that we are in the calm before an intergalactic storm.

"If this is some peaceful first contact, why send 12 ships? Why not send one?" asks a woman on a radio show, encapsulating the paranoia sweeping the globe.

As nations grow nervous, especially General Shang (Tzi Ma), chairman of the People's Liberation Army in China, Louise and Ian take potentially lethal leaps of faith to better understand the aliens' intentions.

Meanwhile, Captain Marks (Mark O'Brien) and other subordinates under Weber's command debate a blunt show of force against the extra-terrestrials. Anchored by Adams' mesmerising performance, Arrival is an extremely stylish tale of grief and self-sacrifice that uncoils beautifully for two hours.

Pacing is deliberately pedestrian, cranking up tension as flawed characters wrestle with agonising questions of mortality. The two visible aliens – affectionately referred to as Abbott and Costello – are a triumph of digital wizardry that doesn't distract from the script's deep emotional core.

At the moment we discover we are not alone, we have never been further apart.

Help to Buy launches at Bolingbroke Park

One, two and three-bedroom homes are available through the London Help to Buy scheme which launched on Saturday 22 October at L&Q's Bolingbroke Park development in Cockfosters. The scheme applies to around 20 homes at Bolingbroke Park, enabling first-time buyers, as well as certain homeowners who meet the qualifying criteria, to get a foot on the property ladder at a development that combines the best of town and country living.

The London Help to Buy scheme will see eligible homebuyers receive an equity loan from the Homes and Community Agency (HCA) of up to 40 per cent of the property value, meaning that they need only raise a 5 per cent deposit and a mortgage of up to 55 per cent of the purchase price. Qualifying homes at Bolingbroke Park range in price from £360,000 for a one-bedroom apartment to £530,000 for a three-bedroom apartment, meaning buyers could receive an equity loan of up to £212,000 from the HCA at an interest-free rate for the first five years. Shared Ownership homes are already available at Bolingbroke Park. At the development's Cornflower Court, homebuyers can purchase one and two bedroom apartments from as little as £90,000 for a 25 per cent share of a one-bedroom property with private outdoor space. Meanwhile, three-bedroom apartments in Ottoman Court are available from £131,250 for a 25 per cent share. More shared ownership homes are set to launch later this year.

Less than 10 minutes' walk away from Cockfosters station on the Piccadilly Line, Bolingbroke Park is perfectly positioned for making the most of all London has to offer. The capital's employment and cultural centres are within close reach, with both the West End and the South Bank around 40 minutes away.

Meanwhile, with the 413-acre Trent Park, as well as Hadley Common and Oak Hill Park all within close reach, Bolingbroke Park offers the perfect respite from the hustle and bustle of central London. Residents will also find the amenities of the high street nearby, full of independent shops, cafés and restaurants, as well as local favourites like the Chickenshed Theatre.

Cathy Lloyd, L&Q's Sales and Marketing Director, said: "We are delighted to offer so many of our homes at Bolingbroke Park under the London Help to Buy scheme. Equity loans are a great help to buyers who need a leg up onto the property ladder, allowing them to purchase a home in London that they would otherwise not be able to afford."

"All homes at Bolingbroke Park are designed in a contemporary open-plan style, featuring fully-fitted kitchens and bathrooms with integrated appliances, so this is a particularly attractive option for those looking for a hassle-free move."

Bolingbroke Park's Sales and Marketing Suite is located at Chase Side, Cockfosters EN4 8HT. For more information or to book an appointment visit www.bolingbrokepark.co.uk or call 0333 0033 637.

DON'T LET YOUR LEASE WASTE AWAY TO NOTHING

Did you know a lease is a “wasting” asset? It will end eventually. Having a “short” lease (usually one below 80 years) may make the flat difficult to sell at the price you want, and to use as security for a mortgage. Lessees have the right to buy their freehold from the freeholder (known as “collective enfranchisement”) or extend their own lease, subject to qualifications.

The legal procedure a lessee must follow to either buy the freehold or extend a lease is a minefield, where notices must be drafted carefully to be valid, and strict timetables must be observed. Where the rules are not followed the outcome for the defaulting party can be extremely costly.

Stennett & Stennett Solicitors and Estate Agents have many years' experience in this area of property law and act for lessees and landlords. We hold a FREE legal and property advice clinic at our office every first Wednesday of the month from 11 am to 5 pm, when you can come in without appointment for advice about your legal and property needs. Or you can call and speak to a member of our Property Department.

KANE HAPPY TO BE BACK

By Dominique Stafford

sport.enfield@nlhnews.co.uk

HARRY KANE expressed his delight after marking his return to action by scoring the goal which helped Tottenham Hotspur to secure a 1-1 draw at Arsenal on Sunday.

The striker had been sidelined for six weeks with the ankle injury he picked up against Sunderland in September, but he managed to recover in time to take his place in the starting line-up for the first north London derby of the season.

And, after an own goal from the unfortunate Kevin Wimmer had put Arsenal ahead, Kane held his nerve to score from the spot in the early stages of the second half to ensure that Spurs maintained their status as the only unbeaten team in the Premier League.

"It felt great to be back out there with the team, fighting for the team and I was delighted to get a goal," he said. "It was an important goal to get us back in the game and we could even have sneaked a winner at the end when Christian Eriksen hit the post.

"I practise penalties during the week, I look at where the goalkeeper stands and how I feel on the day. This time Petr Cech [Arsenal keeper] almost got a touch with his leg, but obviously I was delighted to see the ball go in.

"I have got a few goals against Arsenal now and it gets sweeter every time I score, especially in front of the fans. The travelling support was great again.

"I thought we controlled the game for large parts. They caught us on the counter-attack a few times but, overall, I thought we played well and we could easily have nicked the winner in the end. A draw isn't the worst result in the world.

"I feel good. It's been a tough spell sitting it out and watching the team, so I was delighted to get back out there and get some minutes under my belt."

Spurs made the better start to the match, but taking the lead clearly lifted Arsenal and they finished the first half strongly – almost doubling their advantage when Theo Walcott hit the post.

However, the visitors were able to get back on level terms through Kane's penalty following a foul on Mousa Dembele and came close to snatching the win when Eriksen was thwarted by the frame of the goal.

"It was a strong performance," said manager Mauricio Pochettino. "I'm very pleased and happy for the players because we worked a lot. I thought we were fantastic.

"We finished strongly and that was good after a month which was difficult. We're very positive. We always expect to win games, but we're 11 matches unbeaten in the league – that's important and we're looking forward.

"I'm happy with Harry. It's always important to have your main striker back. It was a good impact for us."

But Pochettino confirmed that key midfielder Dele Alli is likely to be sidelined for a few weeks after suffering a knee injury in training which forced him to miss Sunday's match.

"I hope it's not a big issue," the manager added. "It's bad luck, he's an important player for us. He will be out for a few weeks. That is football and sometimes it happens."

Impressive Borough ease to deserved win against Soham

HARINGEY BOROUGH produced an impressive performance on Saturday to ease to a 3-1 victory at Soham Town Rangers in Ryman League Division One North.

The visitors, who have enjoyed an improved run of form in recent weeks, made a blistering start to the match and could easily have broken the deadlock inside the first 30 seconds when Dean Fenton fired wide from a good position.

However, they fell behind a minute later as Darren Foxley delivered a ball to the back post which Ryan Sherman controlled before squeezing a shot between keeper Harry Palmer and the near post.

Borough continued to press and they deservedly got back on level terms on 31 minutes – Ross Dedman tapping in the rebound after home keeper Will Lawton could only parry a free-kick.

Marcus Hall was thwarted by Palmer as Soham finished the first half strongly, but they were reduced to ten men within three minutes of the restart when Hall was dismissed after collecting a second yellow card.

Although Palmer made a superb save to deny Robbie Mason soon after, it did not take Borough long to begin to take advantage of their extra man and they went in front in the 54th minute when Fenton and Adrian Markus combined well to set up David Olufemi, who finished in style.

Nine minutes later the visitors added a spectacular third as Markus delivered a free-kick into the box which Ralston Gabriel met with an overhead kick that flew into the net.

Markus fired against the bar as Borough became increasingly dominant and Fenton went close before Nana Asamoah was also denied by the frame of the goal when his shot hit the post.

The squandered chances were not to prove costly though as the visitors were able to cruise to victory.

Meanwhile, Borough had picked up a point on Tuesday last week as their clash at Thamesmead Town ended in a 1-1 draw – with Andreas Loizou scoring a 78th-minute equaliser after Joshua Oyinsan had given the hosts an early lead.

Haringey Borough entertain Wroxham on Saturday (3pm).

Driver agrees new deal with Skolars

THE London Skolars have confirmed the re-signing of another key player as they step up their preparations for the forthcoming rugby league season.

The Kingstone Press Championship One outfit had already announced that five first-team regulars had committed their futures to the club, and the past week has seen hooker Billy Driver add his name to the list of players who have agreed new deals.

"These players are beginning to create an exciting squad," said a club spokesman. "Billy joined the London Skolars midway through 2015, and he has established himself as an important member of the squad.

"Billy has quickly become a fan favourite during his time at the club, with his footwork and lightning acceleration causing havoc for opposing defences, often leaving people on the edge of their seats."

Meanwhile, the Skolars have confirmed that their annual pre-season fixture against the London Broncos will take place at the New River Stadium on January 28.

The match is the second clash the club have arranged to help them prepare for the coming campaign – with the Skolars also taking on Super League champions Wigan Warriors in the London Capital Challenge the week before.

Head coach Jermaine Coleman said: "The London Broncos fixture is great for me and my staff as we attempt to work out our strongest side for the opening league match against Toronto.

"It is always a competitive game. We were on the wrong end of the scoreline last time and we will most definitely be looking to rectify that this year."
